

Estate Planning Benefits Everyone

There is a common belief that estate planning is only for the wealthy. This is a mistaken belief. Anyone and everyone can and should benefit from proper estate planning. The reality is that every estate, large and small, benefits from proper estate planning.

Estate planning is not a single document. Proper estate planning involves working with a compassionate and highly trained estate planning attorney who will take the time to get to know you and your wishes through an organized planning process. Consulting with our skilled and knowledgeable team creates a strategy that is carefully crafted to the highest legal standards. With years of legal, tax, and financial experience, our estate planning attorneys translate your wishes and goals for the future into a sophisticated estate plan.

Estate Planning is for everyone who is interested in making a positive difference in the lives of their loved ones after they're gone.

Estate planning can be a complex process for all individuals and families, especially those with substantial assets or special needs to address. Estate planning for all situations involves assembling a complete understanding of your family, all your assets and liabilities, and any particular estate planning concerns and objectives you may have. If you own properties in multiple states, we'll need to address the laws of each state in which you own property. If you have a special needs child, we can set up a Trust for their benefit. We recommend ways to avoid probate and local estate and inheritance tax, if possible.

This is where (redacted) adds value to you. By working together with our estate planning team, we plan for dealing with your assets and liabilities so the burden is not placed on your loved ones after you are gone. In crafting your estate plan, we manage and account for your physical and digital assets, create and administer Medicaid Trusts and more. We provide legal planning for Alzheimer's disease and other long term illnesses that, if necessary, would be a part of your estate plan. Whatever your specific needs and desires are, we are here to provide you with expert guidance and consultation to ensure your needs and desires are met.

Do you already have an estate plan?

Revisiting your estate plan is essential to ensure your wishes for distribution of your assets are always current and documented. If you have recently married, divorced, had a child, lost a job or relocated, it is important to update your estate plan to reflect these life changes.

(redacted) attorneys don't just draft documents for you. We are specially trained professionals who will take the time to get to know you as an individual. We dedicate ourselves to developing an estate plan unique as you that protects your family, preserves your assets, distributes your belongings per your wishes, and saves you taxes. Whatever your specific estate planning needs are, (redacted) is here to serve you.
